

I WISH FOR A WORLD

~Chris Martin & The Spellerverse 3-25-22

I wish for a world where generosity rules greed
Where people are always kind
Where only beauty, beauty of the heart matters
Where parents are born as trained CRPs.

I wish for a world that destroys violence and pulverizes corruption
Where love never ends
Where only joy, joy derived from other's joy matters
Where everyone gets along
Where no hunger exists but only of the intellect

I wish for a world where every music teacher is like Brian
Where EV is honored like a hero
Where everyone has access to communication and education
Where words end wars
Where humans learn how to be humane, instead of selfishly insane.

I wish for a world where all ice cream is DF/GF
Where all people make real decisions
Where everyone can live free of bombs
Where minds' treasured diversity is respected.

I wish for a world where freeing mistakes inspires us to find truth where stims stream truth where it's not filled with pain, only just a taste to gain perspective

I wish for a world that cries, tries and flies together
Where politicians have manners
Where living is uglier than death
Where all people are loved exactly as they are.

I wish for a world full of Kindness / Happiness / Optimistic people / Integrity / Farts
Where ease and grace equal richness
Where music lessons get the funding of baseball teams.
Where everyone understands apraxia
Where friends don't suffer

I wish for a world where stories meet in an estuary of beautiful endings
Where dreams come true for me and you
Where knowing seeing bears all hearing
Where I am free from pain and society's judgements
Where hate is outlawed, truth respected and diversity honoured

I wish for a world where it is easy to find friends
Where the fires of tea burn the waters of evil
Where intensity finds its space
Where spellers are treated like everyone else
Where colors are made with love
Where love rules all
